

Introduction to Fly Tying - Saturday, Jan 28th, 2023 - 9 am to 5 pm.
@ Madeline Briggs University Center at Alpena Community College

Registrations Min 8 Max 12 participants - must register by noon Friday, Jan, 20th*

This day-long class is for anyone interested in learning how to tie flies for fly fishing. It is meant for those who are at a beginning level or for those intermediate tiers who want to improve on basic technique. We will focus on specific techniques prior to actually tying examples of streamers, nymphs, and dry flies later in the session.

Agenda:

- 1. Introduction and review of plans
- 2. Tool review and use
- 3. Technique and proportion - basis for all
- 4. Techniques for tails, dubbing, wings and hackle
- 5. Streamer - tying the Woolly Bugger
- 6. Nymph - tying the Pheasant Tail and Gold Ribbed Hare's Ear
- 7. Dry flies - tying the Elk Hair Caddis and Parachute Adams

We will have a break for lunch. All tools and materials will be provided, though you are certainly welcome to bring your own tools if desired. Equipment will be graciously provided by the Headwaters Chapter of Trout Unlimited.

Cost for the day is $40 which covers all materials and lunch. Please contact the Association of Lifelong Learners @ Alpena Community College by calling 989-358-7207 or e-mail: all@alpenacc.edu to register or for more information.

About your instructor: Bob Baughman has been fortunate to have been tying flies and fly fishing for more years than he cares to admit. Fly fishing has taken him to many destinations both domestic and international. He enjoys teaching as much as actual fishing.

A great supplement to those interested in getting into fly fishing or expanding their fly-fishing skills. Watch for INTRODUCTORY and INTERMEDIATE CONCEPTS of FLY FISHING in April 2023 at Alpena Community College.
